

Album "SOS"

We started to write the album as the first quarantine started, which led to the album title "SOS". The album includes 10 full length song + additional 3 musical compositions which connects between the songs. As the album name is "SOS" - we integrated hidden messages throughout the album using morse code.

The vision was to redefine pop as we know it, to take a step deeper, more experimental but yet relatable and touch a broad audience - from alternative to underground fans, pop and hip hop. In this album we stretched our musical boundaries in many different aspects - from a unique sound design, deep texts which touches sensitive subjects, "out of the box" collaborations with artists from different musical backgrounds and genres, as well as different song structures and different recording techniques. This album's vision is not only musical but also visual, where from the start we closed the gap between music and visual and made it "one" - while it's being express with a cinematic sound design and composition and colorful songs pallet with is driving by strong beats and rhythm.

Each musical piece connected and inspired by visual concept which we express in our music video as well, but also in our future live performances - where we will break through the normal "live concert" and create a conceptual theatrical-musical live performance, connected to the music with dance and exploration of movement and emotion, all under one stage.
